Chronicles):

2 of 2 review helpful first of its kind By book collector I wish I had a book like this when I first moved to the CSRA It s an excellent guide to the history of the area especially Aiken Augusta and Edgefield but also places of interest within an easy driving distance of these three towns Mack provides information that you can t find elsewhere and makes connections between different people and events that give the re The Central Savannah River Area is famous for the sand hills that frame both sides of the great river dividing South Carolina and Georgia Professor and journalist Dr Tom Mack presents his favorite places in this storied region from the grand architectural remnants of Aiken s winter colony to Woodrow Wilson s boyhood home in Augusta Explore Edgefield where the cemeteries are storytellers Columbia where Robert Mills America s first homegrown architect once plied h About the Author Dr Tom Mack is the chair of the English department at USC Aiken and has been a professor there for more than 20 years Since 1990 he has written a weekly column for The Aiken Standard He has received numerous awards for both his teaching and
